SCHOOL LIBRARIES

"There is no school that may not greatly enrich its work by an appeal to the actual experience of the children and by carefully directed observations and experiments. We need our text-books as a summary, as a convenient condensed outline, or as books of reference; but we must provide as best we can other books of reference which will furnish the details which are impossible in the limited number of pages allowed to the text. In every room of every school a library of books, pamphlets, magazine articles, and illustrative material should be found, and every teacher should expect to increase this collection and to improve its quality as the years go by." GEORGE DRAYTON STRAYER.

CLASSROOM LIBRARIES.

In this catalogue for elementary school libraries, an attempt has been made to present the best children's books for each grade. The grading is tentative, but it has been based upon experience and, for the normal child of English-speaking and English-reading parents, should be reliable. It is hoped that the annotations will help in fitting the right book to the right child and bring into use many volumes which seldom leave the shelves.

LIBRARY MONEY.

After an inventory report on the number and condition of library books at the end of the first school term, each year, an allotment of library money is made. Each school's share is determined by the number of books required to install and maintain in each class a library of about fifty volumes, or at least a book per pupil. A certain percentage of the library appropriation may be used for teachers' reference books in Part II of this catalogue, but the whole amount is available for children's libraries. Until the children's libraries are well built up, no large amount of money should be spent for the teacher's library.

SELECTION.

First, select attractive books that will make readers of the children, and then add such material as may be desirable for use in the school work. Any book, whether it be wholly fanciful or wholly informational in character, that leaves "any kind of fine and wholesome feeling in the mind" of the child who reads it, is a book to be desired. The teacher who knows the individual tastes of her pupils should be consulted in the selection of a library for her class. Avoid duplication, as a rule, as a variety of material will keep up the interest. Care should also be taken to select different books for the A and B classes of each year, so that when pupils are promoted a fresh library will be found in the new grade. There are certain recognized classics for children, such as "Swiss Family Robinson," "Boys' King Arthur," "Little Women," etc. which every boy and girl should have a chance to read and know before leaving elementary school. The classroom library should offer first these books that have been tried and loved by generations of young people. About fifty titles of this character under each grade in the catalogue have been starred (*) as a standard library.

ORDERING.

The following plan is suggested in the hope that it may simplify the ordering of library books in the larger schools by a division of labor. Upon the receipt of the circular giving the amount of the library appropriation, let the principal assign to each teacher the amount which she is to expend for her class. Let the class teacher then select from the catalogue the books wanted, and for each title, write a card in the form given below.

Alden, W. L. Cruise of the Canoe Club.....
Copies 2.....Grade 5 A. Miss.....
Ordered April 15, '05.....
Rec'd.....
Supply No.....Contractor, John Smith & Co.....Price.....

The regular catalogue card on the Supply List may be used for this purpose. On this card write on the first line in the upper left hand corner the author's name, initials, and short title of the book. On the second line and to the left the number of copies, if more than one, and below, the date of ordering, leaving space below that for the date of receipt. To the right of this enter the grade for which the book is intended and the teacher's name, and below in the right hand corner, the supply number, contractor and price.

After collecting these cards from each class teacher and revising, sort by contractor before writing the requisition in the regular requisition book. After the order has been written and sent in, the cards should be arranged alphabetically by authors (or titles when author's name does not appear). When the books are received, check the corresponding cards by entering date received, and write name of teacher who ordered the book on inside cover or slip of paper inserted. When a book is withdrawn, lost or worn out, a note may be made on its card. This order-card catalogue kept in the principal's office will give all necessary information in regard to any book in the school library.

PREPARATION OF BOOKS FOR USE.

Before sending to classrooms stamp the book with the School Library stamp on the inside of the cover and write in ink the grade and room number to which it is assigned. Every book should come stamped by the contractor "Property of the Board of Education." At the beginning of the term each teacher should send to the principal a list signed by herself of her classroom library books, to be kept as a receipt.

CLASS LIBRARY RECORD.

In a small collection of fifty books, none but the simplest charging system is needed. One that will give a complete record of books drawn is all that is required. The record card furnished (See Supply List) is recommended and may be used as follows:

1. Write a card for each book, entering author and title of book in the blank space at the top, and book number to the right. Below are spaces for thirty charges in double column, with the same number on the back of the card. Keep the card in its book when on the shelf; when drawn enter borrower's name and date on the card and file alphabetically, checking and returning the card to the book when returned. Pupils usually may make their own entries under the direction of the class librarian.

2. Another method of using the record card is, after writing one for each book, to collect them all in a pack, alphabetically arranged and tied together loosely with a cord through the perforation at the bottom. This gives a compact record book to which additions are easily made by inserting new cards. When a book is issued, turn to the corresponding card and make the entry, checking in the return column when the book is returned. The cover for the library record (See Supply List) is a card of manila board, printed "Class Library, P. S. No. —," the same size as the record card, to be put on the record-pack to protect it front and back. Order on the basis of one or two for each class library and not one for each book.

3. Another very simple system for small classes and small libraries, is the chart plan. Rule as large a piece of cardboard as can be obtained with horizontal and vertical lines, leaving room on the left hand margin for a list of the pupils' names and on the top for a list of the books in the library. When a pupil draws a book mark the space where the pupils' name and the book intersect with a cross, and when the book is returned enter date in the same space. This chart may be hung upon the wall and a glance at it will show just what each pupil has read and just how popular each book is.

CLASS LIBRARIAN.

For all grammar classes, at least, a pupil class librarian should be appointed by the teacher or elected by the class, to assist in keeping records and managing the library. This will give the teacher opportunities to turn uninterested pupils into enthusiastic library patrons. It should be a position of honor and responsibility, but in this connection let it be remembered that the success of the library depends largely upon the teacher's interest and that all of her powers cannot be delegated to the class librarian.

RULES.

Avoid too many rules, but insist, however, upon certain things, viz.:

That the class library be available for reference whenever practicable during the school day and that access be had for general circulation at least once a week. That books drawn by pupils be retained not longer than two weeks, and in the case of a very popular book not longer than one week.

For ordinary offenses it does not seem best to refuse library privileges but for gross carelessness or wilful injury to books there should be some penalty. It is most important that respect for the City's property be taught and if a book is lost or destroyed, it should be replaced.

Gifts to the class library by pupils, teachers or parents should be discouraged unless the books given are upon the authorized lists, or are titles approved by the department. Many indifferent, if not wholly unsuitable, books are often presented to school libraries.

REPORTS.

At the end of the first term an inventory of the library books in each room and in the teacher's reference collection, should be taken and a report made to the principal of the number fit for use, the number to be withdrawn, and the circulation for the term. The principal reports for the whole school to the Superintendent of Libraries, on a postal card report blank, on the general condition of the school's libraries, after including all new books received to date, and after withdrawing all unusable books.

At the end of the Spring term the circulation for the term is reported in the same manner.

MENDING—CARE OF BOOKS.

The library books are not, as a rule, as well bound as text books. Therefore a little care and timely mending will lengthen the lives of the popular ones. The pupils should be encouraged to paste in loose leaves and pictures, and whenever the teacher thinks it advisable, the books should be covered. Gummed binding tape, transparent paper, glue and paste for this purpose may be had from the regular Supply List; and a pamphlet of directions about mending books will be furnished by the Bureau of Libraries.

THE LIBRARY HOUR.

The official time schedule for elementary schools authorizes the use of one reading period a week as a library period. This does not mean that the books should be used only at this time. It means that at least one period a week should be devoted to encouraging the use of good books and habits of reading.

Under the direction of a teacher who is fond of reading herself, who is familiar with the contents of her class library, this library hour may easily be made the pleasantest and most profitable part of the school program. The teacher knows the girls and boys who sit before her every day,—she is familiar with their likes and dislikes, their strong points and weak ones,—and if she also knows the right book to use at the right time, the possibilities are great indeed.

There are many ways of arousing interest in books but it is doubtful whether a better one exists than reading together as a class,—either a story of some literary value, or a book of biography, travel, or history, written in a popular and interesting style.

At first only books that will appeal to all members of the class should be chosen for reading aloud. Discussions of characters, plots, etc., should be encouraged. The pupils should be asked to find out interesting facts about the author of the book. Written reviews of the story read will be of value in connection with work in English composition.

Pupils also may be encouraged to keep in blank books lists of the books they have read, with notes, excerpts, sketches of writers, verses, portraits, etc.

There should also be an effort made to interest children in something beside fiction, once the reading habit is formed. Good books of travel, science or history which are not popular, should be brought to their attention by reading a chapter or two occasionally.

It is not desirable that children read many books, but that they know a few good ones well. The teacher should be watchful to see that it is quality and not quantity of reading that counts.

Suggestions, outlines, short articles about books and authors for use in the library period, as well as practical suggestions from principals and teachers, will appear in the monthly bulletins issued in the interests of the school libraries.

THE CLASSROOM REFERENCE SHELF.

In addition to books for circulation and recreative reading wherever possible, each grammar grade should have its shelf of reference books. If a shelf can not be had, try a table or window ledge. You cannot begin too early to teach pupils to use reference books with intelligence or encourage too much the habit of looking up the unfamiliar words, allusions, etc., which they meet every day in their reading. Collect a few books of general information, a standard statistical almanac, a book of names, a small encyclopaedia, a book of quotations, or synonyms, an atlas or gazetteer. First, however, have a good dictionary and be sure that the pupils know all there is in the back part of it. Short reference exercises every day are recommended and special books for the reference shelf should be borrowed as occasion demands from the teacher's reference library.

TEACHERS' REFERENCE LIBRARY.

Much of the best educational literature of the day, especially books which may be helpful in preparing for teachers' examinations, and those of accepted worth for teaching the different subjects will be found in Part II of this catalogue.

The principal's assistant, or a regular teacher, should be assigned as librarian, to take charge of the teachers' library, and look after all library matters. Place the teachers' library in as central a place as possible, preferably the principal's office or the teachers' room. The books should then be classified and catalogued according to the decimal system, and a card catalogue written. Directions for cataloguing will be given upon application to the Bureau of Libraries, and whenever possible an assistant sent to take charge of the work. Before beginning any classification consult the Bureau of Libraries.

LIBRARIES IN DUPLICATE SCHOOLS.

For elementary schools where library rooms have been equipped, special appropriations for books, periodicals, and pictures will be made from the library funds.

All books will be purchased as far as possible from this catalogue in the manner described above. The present plan for libraries in duplicate schools calls for:

1. Assembling all children's books in the central library room in charge of a teacher librarian. Here the different classes come for regular reading and reference periods and to draw books for home use when the size of the collection permits.

2. Regular visits by classes to the nearest public library branch for instruction in the workings of a library, for reference work, book talks, etc.

3. The continuance of class libraries in classes which cannot be accommodated in the school library room or at the public library.

USE OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It is part of the teacher's privilege to see that pupils know the location of the nearest library branch and that each has an introduction at least to its offerings and workings before leaving elementary school. Visiting the library by classes however, is a matter to be worked out by the principal and the head librarian of the branch.

1394	LONDON, JACK. Cruise of the Dazzler..... A good sea story for boys, concerning the education of one Joe Bronson, who was a failure in school, and who longed for a life of danger and adventure. He ran away from home to join the fishing pirates of San Francisco Bay.	The Baker & Taylor Co.....	.59
1409	LUCAS, E. V. Slowcoach..... "Once upon a time there was a nice family." There were four children in it. One day a wonderful little caravan, or little house on wheels, was given to them by a mysterious person. They set off like real gypsies and had great adventure in the "Slowcoach."	F. C. Stechert Co.....	.98
1449	McFARLANE, A. E. Redney McGaw..... Redney, an ex-office boy who "possessed a smile and an inexhaustible confidence in life," is the interesting and likeable hero of this story. He "joined out" with a circus, and what the "big show" did for him and the adventures he had make a tale over which any boy will sit until he finishes it.	The Baker & Taylor Co.....	.91
1460	McKINNEY, F. L. Nora-square-accounts..... Nora is a plucky little girl who takes charge of her father's household after her mother's death and learns how to make both ends meet. The care of two younger children and a dreamy inventor of a father, is a rather heavy burden for one of her years but she carries it bravely and with an ingenuity worthy of a grown woman. A splendid story, well written and helpful. Bound to be popular.	The Baker & Taylor Co.....	.94
1462	MACLEOD, MARY. Shakespeare story book..... This beautiful book's appearance is in every way fitted to accomplish its purpose, namely, to draw young people to Shakespeare. Eighteen of the more familiar plays are presented. "It is essential," says Sidney Lee in his introduction to the book, "that young readers should find delight and recreation in the tales as he finally presented them in his plays. Such delight and recreation I believe the contents of this volume is fitted to afford them."	A. S. Barnes & Co.....	1.50
1468	MACMANUS, SEUMAS. Donegal fairy stories..... Fairy tales of old Ireland. "Tales as old as the curlew's call, are to-day listened to around the hearths of Donegal with the same keen and credulous eagerness with which they were hearkened to hundreds of years ago."	Syndicate Trading Co.....	.84
1469	In chimney corners..... Merry tales of Irish folk-lore, fifteen of them, excellent for reading aloud, or telling to younger children.	Syndicate Trading Co.....	1.05
1473	MAETERLINCK, MAURICE. Blue bird..... This beautiful fairy play has already become a classic. Although only very unusual and imaginative children will grasp its symbolism, there is story enough to delight all who love fairy tales, and the search of Mvtyl and Tytyl for the Blue Bird is destined to take its place with the search for the Golden Fleece and the voyages of Sinbad.	The Baker & Taylor Co.....	.90
